Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. Shares of any ETF are bought and sold at market price (not NAV), may trade at a discount or premium to NAV and are not individually redeemed from the Fund. Brokerage commissions will reduce returns. Narrowly focused investments typically exhibit higher volatility. The fund is new with limited operating history. The fund is concentrated in technology-related companies face intense competition, both domestically and internationally, which may have an adverse effect on profit margins. Such companies may have limited product lines, markets, financial resources or personnel. The products of such companies may face obsolescence due to rapid technological developments, frequent new product introduction, unpredictable changes in growth rates, competition for the services of qualified personnel, and competition from foreign competitors with lower production costs. Technology companies are heavily dependent on patent and intellectual property rights. The loss or impairment of these rights may adversely affect the profitability of these companies. Investments in foreign securities involve political, economic and currency risks, greater volatility and differences in accounting methods. The Funds are non-diversified, meaning they may concentrate its assets in fewer individual holdings than a diversified fund. Investments in smaller companies tend to have limited liquidity and greater price volatility than largecapitalization companies. Diversification does not assure a profit or protect against a loss in a declining market. The Fund's return may not match or achieve a high degree of correlation with the return of the ETFx Health Tech[®] Index. To the extent the Fund utilizes a sampling approach, it may experience tracking error to a greater extent than if the Fund had sought to replicate the ETFx Health Tech[®] Index. Fund holdings may not equal 100% due to rounding. ETF shares are not individually redeemable and owners of the shares may acquire those shares from the Fund and tender those shares for redemption to the Fund in Creation Units only, typically consisting of aggregations of 50,000 shares.

The ETFx Health Tech[®] Index provides a benchmark for investors interested in tracking companies actively involved in providing health care technology and services. The Index uses a modified market capitalization weighted allocation across the healthcare technology, medical instruments and medical appliances categorizations as well as an equal weighted allocation methodology for all components within each sector allocation. Index components are reviewed semi-annually for eligibility, and the weights are reset accordingly. The Index was created and is maintained by ETFx Investment Partners. An investment cannot be made directly in an index. Fund holdings and sector allocations are subject to change at any time and should not be considered recommendations to buy or sell any security.
